

I am outraged you are considering NOT letting satellite radio offer local programming. Have you listened to local radio lately? Since you let a couple companies own all the stations it is horrible. Aren't the airwaves the public domain? Local broadcasters don't offer anything to the community anymore except more commercials and the same homogenized programming. A couple corporations get rich off of what is supposed the public domain, and now competition comes along and you want to quash it? I thought America was built on free trade and competition. Let the market decide. If someone builds a better mouse trap, good for them. But I guess America is built on special interests with deep pockets.
